A. M. Free Speaks At County Picnic Of Rural Carriers

Last Sunday, Sept. 25, Congressman Arthur M. Free fulfilled a promise of a year's standing and attended a meeting of the Santa Clara County Branch No. 1, California Rural Letter Carriers.

The meeting was held in the Campbell grammar school cafeteria and was well attended by the carriers of this district as well as by many visitors from the San Joaquin district. Postmaster and Mrs. Harry C. Smith attended the picnic dinner.

Congressman Free gave the carriers a very interesting word picture of the past session of Congress, dealing with post office and postal legislation. He expressed his opinion as being against putting rural routes on a contract basis, and thus destroying the carriers' civil service status. He stands with President Hoover, Postmaster-General Brown and other heads of the postal department and many members of congress in that contract service would render poorer service to the farmer on rural routes by taking direct supervision of this branch out of civil service. It would lower the standard of living among postal service workers, and would be a step backward rather than forward in good government.

Italian Colors Beautify Luncheon at Lea Home

Mrs. Horace Lea entertained the members of her bridge club at a luncheon at her home on First street Tuesday, in honor of Mrs. Ellen Lanphear of Saratoga, whose birthday was celebrated recently. Josephine LaBarbara was joint hostess with Mrs. Lea.

The Italian motif in colors of red, white and green, was carried out through the entire afternoon, starting with the Italian luncheon. The table was attractively set with a white lace cloth over red with a lovely red centerpiece and red tapers in green holders. The place cards were red, and were used for bride scores in the game following the luncheon. The final course of the luncheon, which included raspberry ice cream topped with green whipped cream and individual cakes decorated with the name of the honor guest and surmounted by a small red candle in a green holder was unique and pleasing. The rooms were very attractive with huge bouquets of red flowers and green foliage.

In the bridge game which was enjoyed for the remainder of the afternoon, Mrs. Richard Knappen received a beautiful prize for high score and Mrs. William Ohlen the prize for low score.

Present to enjoy the hospitality of Mrs. Lea and Miss LaBarbara were Mrs. Frank Anderson, Mrs. Julius Bachman, Mrs. Knappen, Mrs. Lanphear, Mrs. Ohlen, Mrs. Earl Young and Mrs. Bert Young.

The Rev. Dr. Mills and the Rev. James Whittaker presided over the morning and evening services, respectively, of the Methodist church Sunday, in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. C. E. Irons.

385 Pupils Enter Local High School. Is Large Increase

Exactly 385 students have enrolled in Campbell Union high school, Miss May Farley, secretary, reports. This is an increase of over 10 per cent of last year's enrollment, which was 345.

Ira R. Abbott, principal of the Campbell grammar school, states that the elementary school enrollment is about 745 pupils. Mr. Abbott believes this to be a slight decrease under last year's number.

Mrs. Archie Keesling reports an enrollment of 90 pupils in the Cambrian school, which is about the same as last year.

CIVIC GROUP TO DISCUSS TOLLS AT NEXT MEET

The next regular meeting of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce will be on Oct. 4 at the Community hall, 8 o'clock p. m.

Rideout, manager of the San Jose office of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, has promised to either be on hand himself or send a representative who will be able to discuss fully, and answer any and all questions relative to the elimination of the five cent telephone toll between Campbell and San Jose.

An interesting evening is expected for all who attend, and as usual, the meeting is open to all. Every interested citizen in the community is invited to attend.

Wendell Thomas, president of the Santa Clara County Consolidated Chambers of Commerce, will be present at this meeting, and bring one of his instructive messages.

Dan Yeager, secretary of the organization, says that there will be refreshments.

MRS. J. R. LYNDEN DESCRIBES TRIP TO EUROPE, BRITISH ISLES

"The prettiest town we saw in all our travels abroad was Coblenz, Germany," said Mrs. J. R. Lynden.

"Built upon the banks of the Rhine, it is almost like a fairyland at night when the water reflects the thousands of lights."

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lynden and their family, Richard and John Lynden and Mr. and Mrs. Joyce Farr, have just returned from a motor trip through the United States, Canada, and western Europe. "We had a joyous welcome in Coblenz," reports Mrs. Lynden, "because the Germans are so cordial to Americans. It was in Coblenz that the United States soldiers were quartered and their friendliness won the Germans' admiration."

The Lynden family left Campbell early in the summer, motoring to Detroit, where they crossed through

Women Entertain At Local Grange Meeting Tuesday

Ladies of the Orchard City Grange entertained the men at the regular meeting of the Grange Tuesday night. Mrs. Anusia Witherspoon was in charge of the evening's program, assisted by Mrs. Leland Jones and the Ladies' Auxiliary.

The men were amply provided with entertainment for their minds, their souls, their ears, and their stomachs by their enterprising wives.

Mrs. Harry Boogaert, a visitor from the Mt. Hamilton Grange, opened the program with two piano solos much appreciated by her audience.

Two readings by Mrs. Ben Toll were both humorous and touching. She gave "Out to Old Aunt Mary's" by James Whitcomb Riley, and "That Old-Fashioned Mother," a composition of her own.

Realization that women had not lagged behind the men in enterprising use of modern equipment was brought to the Grangers by Mrs. Witherspoon, who spoke on the contrast between the lives of modern and colonial women.

Community singing, led by Mrs. Georgia Farley, brought out much unsuspected talent.

A bountiful supper was served after the program, including cakes and muffins made from samples of Pillsbury's flour, Schilling's spices, Snowdrift and Wesson oil.

At the regular business meeting preceding the entertainment and presided over by W. M. Woodbury, worthy master, six visitors were welcomed. They were Mrs. Annie Gerrells, state examiner, W. S. Wardlaw, Pomona Grange master, and the masters of San Jose, East Palo Alto, Mountain View, and Mt. Hamilton granges.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hendricks were elected alternate delegates to the state Grange convention to be held in Fresno.

Phyllis Kitchen, Charles Hird Wed In England Sept. 3

A fat piece of wedding cake, appropriately wrapped in tissue paper and ribbons, ended a long journey across an ocean and a continent by arriving in Campbell this week. It was a mysterious bit of wedding cake, bearing only a tiny inscription, "With the compliments of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hird, North Wales."

But the mystery has been solved. Campbell friends are dispatching good wishes to Miss Phyllis Kitchen, who was married at Bradford cathedral in England on September 3 to Charles Hird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Hird of Willow Glen. The young couple are at home in Central building, Dysarth, North Wales.

Miss Kitchen, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kitchen of Cheadle Hulme, Cheshire, lived in Campbell for several years during her high school days. She was a member of the Cherokee Campfire group and active in high school affairs.

Carl Field Will Preside at Meeting, Open To The Public

The executive committee of the Campbell branch of the Community Chest will hold their first meeting of the season Friday at 8 p. m. in the office of the Campbell Water company. Carl B. Field, president, will take charge of the session.

All persons interested in relief work and community welfare in Campbell are asked to attend this meeting. Plans for the year's work will be formulated and organization perfected.

Officers for the coming season will be elected at the meeting.

Officers who functioned last year include Carl Field, president; Guy Farley, financial secretary; Mrs. Gordon Ainsley, secretary; and Mrs. W. I. Merrill, chairman of the relief committee.

The Campbell division of the Community Chest will have charge of the drive for funds conducted by the Santa Clara county community chest in this district.

Campbell's share of the funds is turned over to the Campbell Welfare club, to be used directly by them for Campbell relief. During the past year Mrs. Merrill functioned ably as chairman of this group.

Community chest funds have performed much service in Santa Clara county, supporting the poor, aiding worthwhile organizations, such as the Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C. A., Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts and the Salvation Army.

Local funds have been used in supplying food and homes for Campbell's unemployed.

Cooperation with the Community Chest enables the town to do away with all other charity organizations and thus obviates the need for numerous drives for money.

Youthful Strength

Dr. Magnus Hirschfeld, the world-known authority on Sexology and Director of the Institute for Sexual Science of Berlin, Germany, created to help the millions of men and women who have lost or are losing their vital physical power. In his 35 years of practice and research, however, he realized that the weakening of man's glands was also responsible for other troubles: High blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, physical exhaustion after work or exercise, dizziness, depression, neurasthenia, etc.

All these troubles can be removed with Titus-Pearls. Numerous cases were treated by Dr. Hirschfeld in his Berlin Institute.

L. S. (State Official; 60 years old, married) complained of physical exhaustion, dizziness and tremors. Was easily tired. Mental powers dull and slow moving. Physical powers had been incomplete for previous 5 years. Blood pressure too high. Given 2 Titus-Pearls 3 times a day. 2 weeks later the medical report on this man was:—General health better, more vigor; dizziness much less and returning of power. Treatment continued and 2 weeks later L. S. reported again, this time to say that all weariness and exhaustion had gone; he felt fresh and buoyant. His blood pressure had fallen, and at 60 years of age he had regained the physical power and virility that he had known in the prime of his life.

Start regaining your youthfulness now! To-day! In 2 weeks time you will be aware of the new, virile force within you. Send $5.00 (cash registered or money-order) for 2 weeks treatment. C. O. D. Orders accepted. Write for booklet.

WORDS—JUST WORDS

The Democratic presidential nominee has made another long speech and as usual, aside from his accustomed gross misrepresentation of the President's attitude, has said nothing.

This time the speech was at Topeka, Kansas, and the topic was the farm problem. Governor Roosevelt begins by asserting his deep sympathy with the distress that has come upon agriculture through the low prices of the past few years and his great desire to have this distress relieved—in which expression he merely aligns himself with all other American citizens. He is unwilling, however, to admit that President Hoover entertains this universal feeling of sympathy and concern. He charges the Republican leadership, from the President down, with "an incredible disregard of facts, combined with stubborn indifference to the consequences of their folly," with a complete "lack of sympathy" with efforts that have been made to improve agricultural conditions, declares that it "takes a position wholly inimical to every effort made during the past three years to provide workable means of relief," that it has absolutely "repudiated responsibility," and that its position on the subject has been "negative, even hostile."

Of course all these accusations are wholly groundless, and are unworthy of a candidate who presumably should be making a dignified campaign since he seeks the highest office in the land. President Hoover's whole career is an answer to any suggestion that he is indifferent to the welfare of the common man, while his official record shows that he has had the rehabilitation of agriculture always foremost in his thoughts and in the measures he has brought forward to combat the depression. To charge that this administration is indifferent to the distress among the farmers is not only to ignore the record, which shows that practically one billion dollars of government funds or credit have been appropriated during the past three years directly to the aid of agriculture, but it is to accuse the President and his associates in the government with wholly lacking political sense since it is obvious that would have more surely assured the re-election of this administration that the return of prosperity to agriculture.

As to what Governor Roosevelt chooses to dignify as "his plan" for farm relief, it is enough to say that even the most friendly critics find it lacking in concrete proposals. It is little more than a statement of ideal objectives without offering a plan that even promises to bring them to realization.

So far as the plan holds any definiteness at all it is based entirely on the tariff. Again and again the Governor resorts to the "demand" that there shall be equality for agriculture in our tariff legislation. Under this plan what hope would there be for farm relief with a Democratic tariff bill, if the future is to be judged by the past, would place virtually all farm products on the free list? With wheat, cotton, corn, cattle, hogs, dairy products either on the free list or with so low a duty as to be negligible, as they were under the Underwood law, what point would there be to demanding equality for agriculture based upon the tariff?

Governor Roosevelt summarizes his farm relief proposals under six heads. He declares first that the producer of staple surplus commodities must be given a tariff benefit over world prices equivalent to the benefit given by the tariff to industrial products, but he does not say how this is to be done. He proposes second that the plan must finance itself, but he doesn't say by what means. He declares third that it must not make use of any mechanism which would cause our European customers to retaliate on the ground of dumping, but he doesn't say what the mechanism would be. He asserts fourth that the chief responsibility for the operation of the plan must "rest with locality rather than with newly created bureaucratic machinery in Washington," but does not state what the locality shall do. He declares fifth that the plan must operate as nearly as possible on the cooperative basis, but he does not indicate how that basis shall be established. He proposes sixth that whatever plan is adopted must be voluntary and not coercive, but he still fails to state what the plan shall be.

Words—just words.

WATCH YOUR STEP

Prevention of traffic accidents involving school children is mainly in the hands of the motorist—careful driving and attention to the condition of brakes will go far toward reducing the number of child deaths and injuries. This safety appeal is contained in a statement by Percy Towne, chairman of the public safety committee of the California State Automobile association.

"While splendid progress has been made in improving the traffic fatality record among children," Mr. Towne said, "the problem continues to demand the constant cooperation of every motorist. It is significant that children themselves are doing as much, if not more, than their elders in the way of responding to traffic control and using care on the streets and highways. This may be regarded as largely responsible for the fact that only 15 per cent of the motor deaths during 1931 were in the age group from five to 14 years, as compared to 61 per cent involving persons between the ages of 15 and 54."

This gratifying record of the age group which includes school children can doubtless be attributed to safety education in the schools, to the work of the school traffic patrols, to the wide use of caution signs on highways near rural schools, and on streets adjacent to city schools.

With the re-opening of schools more than 6,000 boys of the school traffic patrol have resumed their protective work in northern and central California. Motorists can help to assure the safety of school children by cooperating with these boys, and by otherwise observing caution signs in the vicinity of schools.

TAXING THE RAILROADS

The cost of government takes one-third of our national income at present. In the case of some industries, it takes a good deal higher percentage than that.

The railroads are one of the worst sufferers. During May taxes absorbed 52.9 per cent of their operating income—whereas in 1913 the tax collector garnered in 12.6 per cent. During the first five months of this year, taxes were 45.6 per cent of receipts.

This explains one of the main reasons why many railroads are just one step from the receiver. Government takes more and more of their money—and with that money it subsidizes waterways which take away their business, aids in building roads over which their motor competitors run free from federal regulation, and maintains the bureau which regulates practically every phase of railroad operation, but does not extend similar regulation to their competitors.

Every informed citizen knows that railroad prosperity is essential to general industrial prosperity—that almost every one of us, directly or indirectly, is an investor in the rails—that in normal times they are our greatest purchaser of commodities and employer of labor. We know that they have been given a raw deal, and that no other agency of transport can take their place. It is time the public made its influence felt and demanded legislation which will place all common carriers on an equal footing.

AN OUTSTANDING ASSET

In welcoming the National Association of Life Underwriters in San Francisco, Governor Rolph said: "To the life insurance profession belongs a task that is at once the most important and personal of all professions. It has within itself the seed of genuine, sympathetic and intensely humane service . . ."

We have seen that truth demonstrated vividly the past three years. Life insurance has reduced poverty, mitigated distress, aided the unfortunate. It has sustained dependents at a time when inheritances from other sources have depreciated to almost nothing. In many estates, life insurance has been the only asset with definite and permanent value.

The importance of life insurance cannot be exaggerated at any time. And in these times its importance grows steadily. Sales of new life insurance are holding at high levels even though general purchasing power is far down. Millions of Americans have learned, through bitter experience, that life insurance is the one investment that can be counted upon to weather the floods of depression without ill effect.

HAS CAPITALISM FAILED?

According to the Marx theory, the United States, as the most advanced capitalist country, should have been the first to succumb to socialism. On the contrary, it has held out longest and best, and is first to begin recovery, simply through placing the government credit at the service of cities and states to provide work for the unemployed—not to pay them doles.

Compare this condition with Germany, Australia, New Zealand and other countries where paternalism prevails.

BOOKS

The Fountain,—by Charles Morgan, New York, 1932.

This book should satisfy philosophers, poets, artists, and romanticists. In language as sincerely beautiful as that of the Bible, Mr. Morgan tells the story of a young dreamer who meets love in a strange and lovely environment.

Lewis Alison, English soldier interned in Holland, is unlike the usual romantic hero in that his one desire is to work alone at a history of contemplative thought. He welcomes his imprisonment among the Dutch as the looked-for opportunity.

But somehow the world breaks into Alison's thoughts. He indulges in long talks with his comrades, in eager exchanges of ideas; he becomes fascinated with the library in the ancient van Leyden home; and is forced into society through the hospitality of old Baron van Leyden. Finally he shoves his books into the background. His love for Julie von Narwitz, stepdaughter of the Baron, overshadows the whole world.

The love of Lewis and Julie is not unlike any other mingling of spiritual and passionate love until Julie's husband, a Prussian nobleman, comes home from the war. A character one cannot forget is von Narwitz, whose powerful mind quite conquered his war-broken body.

Julie and Lewis did not forget him. They worshipped him. Into the story of the relationships of these three Mr. Morgan has woven tragedy and wonder.

Although quietly told, this tale glows with colorful descriptions. And its philosophies clothe the reader's mind with new ideas.

Coming Up The Road, by Irving Bacheller.

What do boys think about? Many a mother has wondered this as her loud-voiced, hard-hearted young adolescent lives unconcerned in her household. Many a girl has despairingly echoed this question, as her youthful admirers come and go.

Irving Bacheller can answer them both. At least he describes to the last detail his own thoughts and feelings as he grew up in a rustic New York valley.

Men who count as cherished their memories of a farm boyhood will enjoy Bacheller's descriptions of country schools, fishing and hunting expeditions, and country fairs.

Mr. Bacheller is at present a successful journalist. But he does not try to explain how he won his fame. He is merely trying to describe lovable "North Country" characters whose like every country-bred man has known.

A biography quite simply told is "Coming Up The Road." But it reads like an amusing story. After all, Mr. Bacheller is a humorist.

Susan Spray, by Sheila Kaye-Smith.

England too has its Aimee Semple McPhersons. And Sheila Kaye-Smith looks right inside their minds and tells us what she sees.

We discover that Susan Spray, successful woman evangelist, began as a hungry country child who saw visions when she felt a need of them and ardently defended the truth of these visions.

A mind a bit narrow but very ambitious was Susan's, and a heart quite inhumanly hard. But the reader doesn't really care.

For Sheila Kaye-Smith has written this book cynically but humorously, feelingly and yet lightly. The characters live but one doesn't worry about them. One laughs instead.

And certainly one cannot doubt Susan Spray's sincerity. It is her only charm. She truly believes that she will find the Promised Land when she leads her starving brothers and sisters down the strange

THE FARMERS CORNER

By Ralph H. Taylor

The American farm not only produces the nation's food supply. It produces, as well, the necessary "birth surplus" to wipe out the "child deficit" in American cities and maintain an increasing army of consumers.

This striking analysis of the relationship of the farm family to the general problem of race suicide, and the closely related agricultural problem of consumer-demand, comes from no less an authority than Dr. O. E. Baker, able economist of the United States Department of Agriculture.

In the large cities of America, during 1930, births had dropped from 20 to 25 per cent below the ratio necessary to keep the population stationary, according to Dr. Baker's analysis. In the smaller cities, he reports, the 1930 "child deficit" was about ten per cent.

Counter-balancing this definite urban trend toward a dwindling population and diminishing markets, there was a 50 per cent "birth surplus" in the farm population of the nation during 1930, and a 30 per cent surplus in rural villages.

"At present the rural surplus deficit," Doctor Baker finds, "but slightly overbalances the urban is not sufficient to maintain permanently the 15 to 20 million larger population that will exist 20 years hence. Meanwhile the annual increase in the nation's population is diminishing rapidly."

The great exodus of farm people to the cities during the decade from 1920 to 1930, when between 8 and 9 million farmers were absorbed by the cities, is of considerable significance in analyzing the future trend of population, according to the federal economist. This migration, he discloses, was largely of young people between 15 and 35 years.

Since 1930 a reverse current toward the farm apparently has set in, composed partly of unemployed seeking relief with relatives or friends. "Whether this farmward migration is transitory or permanent only the future can reveal," declares Dr. Baker. "But from the social point of view this great migration from the farm during the years of urban prosperity, and the reverse current recently during the years of urban and rural adversity, are especially significant because of the wide difference between rural and urban people in birth rates."

Only a material increase in the number of people living on farms, or a re-opening of the gates to immigration, can avert a decline in the population of the United States during the next 25 years, Dr. Baker believes.

The federal official's analysis, summed up, would seem to call for more farm babies as a cure for farm overproduction.

highroad. She actually plans that her tiny son will be a Messiah and grieves broken-heartedly at his death.

Susan Spray can scarcely allow her love affairs to interfere with her religion. She lets her adored first husband, Strudwick, do her housework while she preaches. She finds sorrow when she lets passion force her into a marriage with Clarabut, the unbeliever. She ensnares the humble David Pell as a third husband for the sake of his money's aid to the church.

Drama, humor, and love—these the reader finds in Susan Spray. And what more could a reader ask?

TRUE CHURCH, NEIL'S TOPIC SUN. NIGHT

The first of a short series of lectures on "The True Church" was given Sunday night at the Community hall by J. Lee Neil. His remarks, in part, were:

"Since Armageddon is primarily a war against God and His true people and since the war is inspired by a combination of fallen religions it is of first importance to know which church is, and which is not, true. Since there are nearly five hundred different denominations all claiming to teach the truth as representative of Jesus Christ and His first true church, is it consistent to think the one Holy Spirit is inspiring five hundred different teachings? It is not. God is not the author of this great confusion. (I Cor. 14:33).

"On the contrary, Christ states plainly that the Holy Spirit is busy bringing all of His true sheep to one fold. (John 10:16).

"Two outstanding signs are given by which this true fold may be known. (Rev. 12:17).

"They keep the commandments of God.

"They have the testimony of Jesus Christ.

"Under the first point, to transgress God's law is sin, and means death. (I John 3:4; Rom. 6:23). To transgress one command means to disregard the whole law. (James 2:10-12).

"Many professors of Christ are knowingly and willingly breaking the fourth commandment that calls for worship on the seventh day, every week. Some are breaking this command unknowingly. Jesus Christ declared in His Sermon on the Mount that if any man broke one of these least commandments and taught others to break it, in heaven's sight he would be at the bottom of the list, a rebel against God. Even ministers of alllh's-ns God. (Matt. 5:19).

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By Ada C. Bohrman
Pastor Pentecostal Mission

You hear people saying to each other so often these days: "What do you know?" It is merely an expression, but I believe if anyone should know it would be a Christian. Did you ever stop to think how many times the word "know" is used in the Bible? In the epistles of John alone "know" is used about 20 times. One may say "I guess," "I think so," and "maybe so," and we are not sure that he is certain or not; but let him say "I know" and we are sure he is positive in his statement. Job know it. "For I know that my Redeemer liveth and that He shall stand at the latter day upon the earth." Job 19:25. He looked forward to the cross where his redemption was to be purchased with the precious blood of Jesus Christ.

Solomon, the wise man of the Bible, tells us "I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be forever; nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before Him." Ah, that more of the wise men of today might know this, when they belittle God and His word.

Friends, we need that God-given knowledge that He is able to save and keep us in every difficulty. If we will trust Him, we need never be ashamed. "For the Lord God will help me; therefore shall I not be confounded; therefore have I set my face like a flint and I know that I shall not be ashamed." Is. 50:7. This knowledge is not head-knowledge—it is straight from the heart. Paul of Tarsus knew, when he gave us those grand old words in 2 Tim 1:12: "For the which cause I also suffer these things: nevertheless I am not ashamed: for I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day."

Do you know, dear reader? It is possible to know beyond a shadow of a doubt that God is real, and a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him."

27, "Why Pray?" with Ruth Townsend presiding.

Dec. 4, "Is Democracy a Failure?" discussed by Elmer Sundquist; Dec. 11, "Relative Merits of Religions," with Noel Voge as leader; Dec. 18, "Has Christmas any Meaning?" argued by the Rev. Bennett.

many homes
have light

that's ruinous to eyes!

No one intentionally wants to have poor lighting in the home, especially when young folks must study and read at night. But many people do go on living with light that is ruinous to eyes.

There is for example the very faulty belief that light must come from over the left shoulder. No one knows just how such an idea started... but it's all wrong. Good light to read by should come from all around; abundant light, not mere brightness; plentiful light, broken-up, softened and diffused.

Unshaded lamps, no matter how bright they may seem, are almost as far behind the times as clustered candle light or coal oil lamps.

Use plenty of light from globes of sufficient wattage, shade them properly and arrange them to light the whole room and you are employing the best use of modern lighting. The comfort you will get from such use of light will surprise you, especially if you have been using light that glares and tires the eyes. Also the low cost of good lighting will surprise you. The cost of light, both for lamps and for current, has been going down for more than fifteen years.

Make a test and see how great a comfort abundant light can be and how fine a preservative it is of eyesight and eye usefulness. Light the whole room, have light that fills the room and comforts the eyes. Forget about old notions such as spotting light from over the left shoulder.

TINY MISS GREET'S FRIENDS AT PARTY ON HER BIRTHDAY

Little Miss Geraldine Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Christian Anderson, Pollard road, was hostess to her young friends at a very pretty birthday party Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Geraldine, who was just three years old, was adorable in a tiny pink dress that harmonized with the decorations. Her party was held out in the garden and the center of the affair was a pink-covered table under the trees on the lawn. It supported an imposing birthday cake, placed on top of a pink ruffled box. After the little lass had blown out her three candles the cake was removed and pink silk ribbons leading into the box yielded amusing prizes to the children.

Little guests at the party were Grant and Teddy Furnish, and Diana Lowler, of Willow Glen, Beverly Burns, of Santa Clara, Mark Thomas, of San Jose, and Allan York, Betty York, Irene Lohr, Lois Smith and Caroline Anderson all of Campbell.
